DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Objections

1. Claim 10 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 1 has been rewritten to include essentially the same subject matter contained in claim 10.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 3-7, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Elendt et al. (U.S. Patent 5,992,360).

Elendt et al. disclose a valve drive comprising a hydraulic clearance compensation element 6 having a coupling means 13 further comprising a bushing 14 and bores 11, 12, a locking piston 16 and a flat surface stop 24, a guide sleeve 17 in bore 12, and another piston or locking cap 18 (column 3, lines 3-22 and Figures 1-3), wherein the space on one end of the locking piston 16 of coupling means 13 is small and the space near the other end of the locking cap 18 is large (Figure 1), the coupling means affecting the idle stroke (column 4, lines 15-19), the locking piston 16 having a crowned front end (Figure 1). They, however, fail to specifically disclose the cam position during coupling.

Elendt et al. teaches a switchable valve drive where the motion of the cam is transmitted through a hydraulic clearance compensation element 6 affected by the coupling means 13 (column 3, lines 29-36). It would have been an obvious choice to arrange the coupling means to occur during the base circle cam position rotation of the cam depending on rotational stresses, loading factors, and fluid pressure requirements.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 4 April 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

6. Regarding applicant's arguments in the last paragraph of page 5, applicant's coupling means pertains to portions (for example, pistons) which traverse gaps or spaces before contacting other portions of the cam follower. Examiner has applied this coupling means in the interpretation of the invention by Elendt et al., and the spaces on either side of the coupling means 13 can be interpreted in its broadest terms as functioning as two coupling means. The inclusion of claim 9 into claim 1 as argued on the top of page 6 also does not overcome the obvious rejection as previously was indicated for claim 10. Claim 9 was previously objected to because of its dependence on claim 2 which appears to contain patentable limitations.

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
